TUESDAY, May 2, 1848. Neither House of Congress was in session to-day. The House assembled at noon and repaired to the Senate chamber, to attend the funeral obsequies of the late Senator Ashley. The President, the members of his cabinet, a number of army officers, and a few foreign ministers, were present. A solemn and impressive prayer was delivered by the Rev. Mr. Garley, and a sermon by the Rev. Mr. Slicer. The ceremonies were of the most solemn cha-
